World Today Has Eyes On Meet--Hughes

Secretary Accepts Post As Chairman of Disarm Conference

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON—Sec'y. Hughes in his address today accepting the permanent chairmanship of the conference on limitation of armaments, said in part: "Permit me to express the most cordial appreciation of the assurance of friendly cooperation which have been expressed by the representatives."

The world looks to this conference to relieve humanity of the crushing burden created by competition in armament, and it is the view of the American government that we should meet that expectation without any unnecessary delay. It is therefore proposed that the conference should proceed at once to consider the question of the limitation of armament.

This, however, does not mean that we must postpone the consideration of the Pacific Eastern question. It is hoped that immediate provision may be made to deal with them adequately.

There was a minute of applause as the president concluded. The conference was called to order by Sec'y. Hughes at 10:33 a. m. and immediately after the opening prayer, Sec'y. Hughes called the conference to order.

Ex-Illinois Senator Says Suspicion, Hatred to Mark Meeting

TRIBUTE TO LA FOLLETTE

Lauds Badger Senator in Armistice Day Address At Stock Pavilion

With hatred, malice, want of confidence everywhere, and suspicion hanging over the world like a black storm cloud, nothing that will lead to disarmament and a world peace can possibly come out of the Washington conference for the limitation of arms, Hamilton Lewis, former United States senator from Illinois, declared last night at the Armistice day mass meeting at the stock pavilion.

"Can we hope," asked Mr. Lewis, "from such a spirit, the dismantling of navies and the disarming of armies? Let us face what surrounds us. I am not here to disguise the truth or to mask a sentiment I feel. Here is my country, with every nation envious of her high place in the world. I am sorry to say it, but there is not a nation in the world friendly to America."

Tribute to La Follette. A glowing tribute to Senator La Follette was paid by Mr. Lewis before beginning his address.

"However much I may have differed from him in political questions and questions of government, I delight to say here in his home that it is an honor for Wisconsin to have a man in public life who, in a day when there is so much personal greed and opportunity for corruption, has kept his private and public life so clean that his probity as a gentleman and a statesman cannot be questioned."

About 1,500 people attended the meeting, and the high school band accompanied the audience, led by Prof. E. B. Gordon, in community song. Besides the chairman of the evening, Emerson Ely, and Mayor Kittleson, who introduced the speaker, were members of the Grand Army of the Republic, bearing a large, silken American flag.

Mr. Lewis was escorted to his seat by W. Loeschner, ex-service man, and the mayor was accompanied by William Benway, also a service man.

"It is just to warn America that she must anticipate the breaking up of the conference on limitation of armaments, opened today at Washington, because of the demand that will be made upon this country to cancel debts of the allied debtor countries, and the demands of countries of Asia for the possession of islands in the Pacific," said Mr. Lewis.

Another Cause of Failure. "Another cause for the failure of results will be the opposition of each of the foreign countries to the success of the other country receiving favors or privileges that

La Follette To Urge Repeal Of Esch Law

Badger Senator Will Ask State Control of Rail Rates

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Sen. Robert M. La Follette will launch in the senate Monday a fight to repeal the fundamental provisions of the Esch-Cummins law of 1920. Wisconsin's senior senator will offer a series of amendments to the transportation law, the most important of which will provide as follows:

1.—Repeal of the rate guaranty in section 422, subsection 15a, under which the railroads boosted freight rates 35 per cent, passenger fares 20 per cent, and Pullman fares 20 per cent on Aug. 26, 1920.

2.—Restoration of state control over rates within the state.

3.—A mandate to the President requiring him to offset the $1,200,000,000 owed to the government by the railroads with the $500,000,000 owned by the railroads by the government, compelling the railroads to pay the balance due.

La Follette's amendments will be offered Monday afternoon when the Senate takes up the Winslow-Townsend Railroad Refunding bill. This bill provides, in substance, that the government shall pay its $500,000,000 debt at once, allowing the railroads to defer payment on their $1,200,000,000 debt until 1931.

The repeal of the rate guaranty, proposed by Sen. La Follette, will throw open the whole railroad problem for debate, and precipitate a bitter struggle.

In the last few months, representatives of farmers, grain dealers, manufacturers, independent meat producers, independent petroleum refiners, and many other interests covering the entire field of agriculture, industry, labor, and trade have appealed before congressional committees demanding the repeal of the sections of the Wisconsin senator proposes to strike from the law.

Sen. La Follette is assured of support for his amendments from many senators who voted for the Esch-Cummins law when it was rushed through congress in Feb. 1920. Members of the agricultural block, including Senators Capper, McNary, and others who will support the law, it is believed, will support the La Follette amendments. The amendments are also expected to call forth the support of many Senators on the Democratic side. The amendment restoring to the states control of intrastate rates has the support of every state railroad commission in the Union.

Michael B. Olbrich of Madison, appeared in Washington recently before the Supreme court in a suit brought in behalf of the 48 states to overthrow the provisions of the Esch-Cummins law which destroyed the power of the state to regulate their own rates. The action is now pending, awaiting a decision of the court.

In a series of speeches on the floor of the senate this week, Sen. La Follette will review the whole history of the Esch-Cummins law, citing the prohibitive rates and consequent losses to farmers, shippers, and consumers which have resulted from its enactment.

Norwegian Lutheran Church of Sun Prairie Is Served By Father, Son and Grandson

First Services Held in 1851 by Rev. H. A. Preus; Present Pastor, O. J. H. Preus is Grandson of Pioneer Pastor; Anniversary Is Observed

Seventy years ago this fall the Norwegian Lutheran congregation of Sun Prairie was organized and on Oct. 22, 1899, the present church was dedicated. An observance of these anniversaries was held by the congregation Oct. 23. An interesting fact in connection with this church is that it has been served by father, son and grandson as ministers, the first minister being Rev. H. A. Preus, the well known preacher of pioneer days, while among its later ministers was his son, Rev. C. K. Preus, whose son again, Rev. O. J. H. Preus, of De Forest, is serving as its present pastor.

The first service in that vicinity was held in August, 1851, conducted by Rev. H. A. Preus, who had recently come from Norway to serve his countrymen as minister. On Sept. 24, that year, the congregation was organized and the constitution was signed by the following 12 settlers: Thorvald Gullikson, Gunder Olsen, Ole Olsen, Jakob Nilsen, Tarjei Tellefsen, Alf Nelsen, Neri Torgersen, Svend Christensen, Ole Gundersen, Anund Larsen, Isak Jacobsen and Jakob Jakobsen. At the same time a call was issued to the two brothers, Revs. A. C. and H. A. Preus to serve as ministers, and Rev. H. A. Preus acted as such for a number of years. These ministers then had wide circuits among the Norwegian settlements and services were only infrequently held. Having no church building, the congregation held such services in their own log cabins, in the open air or in school houses and other buildings.

On Nov. 1, 1869, the congregation voted to buy three-quarters of an acre from Herman Bergeland for a site for a church. It was not until Feb. 6, 1871, however, that it was voted to build a church and the sum of $412 was pledged toward it. Years were to elapse, however, before it was to be completed and dedicated. September 17, 1874, it was voted to incorporate and Dec. 13, 1876, a call was sent to Rev. C.

K. Preus, son of the first pastor. About 1880 a new circuit was formed with the Madison congregation and May 28, 1882, a call was sent to Rev. S. Gunderson, now of Mt. Airy, but then a theological candidate. He accepted the call and two years afterwards, in the fall of 1884, the building was formally dedicated. About this time the great split in the synod occurred, and as a result the congregation left the synod and helped in the organization of the United Church in June, 1890. In the fall of that year, Rev. Mr. Gunderson resigned to accept a call to Blue Mounds and was succeeded by Rev. Gerhard Rasmussen, who served as pastor until the fall of 1894. He was succeeded in March, 1895, by Rev. Th. Eggen.

February 18, 1899, it was voted to raise the old church building and build a new one. The last service in the old church was held April 2, of that year, and on June 18, 1899, the cornerstone of the new edifice was laid. October 22, the same year the new church was dedicated by Rev. T. H. Dahl, with Rev. S. Gunderson, the former pastor, making the dedicatory address.

In 1905 Mr. Eggen resigned as pastor to assume the editorship of the church organ, "Lutheraneren," in the meantime the union with the Madison organization was discontinued and a new circuit formed with the congregation of Norway Grove, and Rev. J. A. Aagaard became the pastor. He resigned in 1911 to become president of Concordia college, Minnesota, and was followed by Rev. N. A. Stubbler, who served until the spring of 1915 when he became the head of the children's home at Stoughton. Rev. O. J. H. Preus was then installed as pastor by his father, the late Rev. C. K. Preus, in July, 1918, and has served as pastor of these two congregations since that time.

While not a large one, the Sun Prairie congregation has grown steadily from its beginning and thus justified the faith of its early founders.

Americanize By Contact Is Pastor's Plea

Rev. Palotta Speaks at Opening of Neighborhood House

"You can't Americanize the foreigner and stay away from him at the same time. You haven't Americanized a foreigner when he can tell you who the first president of the United States was, or what the revolution of 1776 meant," Rev. Philip Palotta, a pastor of the ninth ward, told the several hundred people assembled at the formal opening of the Ninth Ward Neighborhood house, 765 W. Washington ave.

Rev. Palotta urged closer contact of the foreign population, as typified in the ninth ward, with the American-born, and declared that the foreigner cannot be educated by means of the sensational American newspapers, which do not print the news that would help to make the foreigner a good American citizen.

Prof. E. B. Gordon, one of the chief promoters of the neighborhood house, acted as chairman. The belief that the house will make for better citizenship was expressed by Mayor Kittleson in a brief talk. Rev. George E. Hunt, pastor of Christ church, who five years ago addressed a similar assemblage at the opening of the old community house, sketched the growth of co-operation in Madison and declared that the ninth ward center was a fine manifestation of that spirit.

Other speakers were Anton Navarro, Italian, who declared that the only way to "Americanize us" is to be with us; Fred M. Wilcox, of the industrial commission; Thomas W. Gosling, superintendent of schools; T. G. Murray of the vocational education board, and J. B. Ramsay, a pioneer resident of the ninth ward. Mr. Ramsay stressed the advantages of a common meeting ground of American born citizens and Americans in the making. The Italian band, which has been practicing at the house for a month, played several selections.

Two large rooms for social activities on a large scale and for classes form the lower floor of the house, which was formerly used as a store with living apartments upstairs. The second floor has several small but attractive rooms, a few good pictures, and some books characterize the upper rooms. Chairs, tables, games and toys are needed for the first floor.

During the past four weeks 1,128 people have used the neighborhood house in one way or another, according to Miss Gay Braxton, resident social worker. There have been 62 meetings, and 15 regular meetings are scheduled there for each week. The house was purchased by the Public Welfare association by means of generous donations from Madison people.

Hold Hearing On Sheriff's Case Monday

Blaine to Determine Whether Rodd Shall Be Removed

Hearing on the complaint filed with Governor Blaine against Sheriff Hans Rodd for disobeying the Governor's pardon order for release of Peter Christ from the Rhinelander jail, will be held Monday morning in the executive office.

Gov. Blaine will determine whether or not the action of the sheriff was sufficient cause for removal from office. It is believed here that the officer will be relieved of his duties as a result of his refusal to obey the executive pardon order.

Petitions have been presented by organizations in Rhinelander asking that the governor retain Sheriff Rodd in his present position. The sheriff became involved in the controversy with the governor when he obeyed instructions from Judge A. H. Reid of Wausau, telling him that the governor had no authority to pardon Christ, who was sentenced for criminal contempt of court.

Says Public Should Decide Call To War

N. J. Supreme Justice Asks Amendment Taking Power From Congress

PASSAIC, N. J.—An amendment to the federal constitution taking the power to declare war out of the hands of the president and congress except in case of actual invasion was urged here today by Justice F. Minturn of the New Jersey supreme court. In an armistice day speech Justice Minturn said that should be undertaken only after nationwide referendum. "Prayer will not abolish war," he said. "We have been praying for thousands of years and war is more malignant than ever. Let us start the good work by getting every candidate for congress to support this proposed amendment and then pray."

It was expected today notices of the wage reductions would be posted within a week.

Maud Neprud And J. Otjen Marry Today

Ceremony is Performed at Bride's Parents Home in Coon Valley

BY JULIA VAN ARK.
This afternoon at 1 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Neprud, at Coon Valley, Wis., occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Maud, to Christian John Otjen of Milwaukee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. H. Ergon, of Minneapolis, an uncle of the bride, and the ring service was used. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Marion, as bridesmaid.

Florence Altendorf attended the groom as best man and little Margaret Neprud, daughter of the bride, acted as flower girl.

The bride wore a simple gown of Chinese brocade silk which had a panel train. Her long veil of silk net was arranged with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a necklace of pearls. Her bouquet was orchids, lilies and Ophelia roses. Miss Marion, as bridesmaid, wore a charming gown of fuchsia shade decorated with orange blossoms. Her corsage was of fuchsia and violets. The little flower girl's frock was of ruffy organdy, and she carried a basket of roses. Mrs. Neprud, mother of the bride was dressed in blue satin and Mrs. Otjen, mother of the groom, wore black velvet.

Following the ceremony Miss Stella Trane of La Crosse, sang "Because." The Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Helen MacArthur, also of La Crosse. At the close of the ceremony Miss Trane sang, "I Love You." A luncheon was served to 30 guests and a four piece orchestra furnished the music for the reception which followed.

The bride's traveling suit was of Copenhagen blue ermine and her hat was of pheasant feathers.

Mrs. C. J. Otjen is the woman member of the State Board of Control. Mr. Otjen is the younger son of former Congressman and Mrs. Theodore Otjen of Milwaukee. He is associated with his father and brother in the practice of law under the firm name of Otjen and Otjen.

Program For Vecsey Violin Recital Will Illustrate Wide Range of Skillful Technique

Musician's Own Composition Will Be Feature of Program; Australian Baritone Singer Coming to Madison Dec. 5

BY PORTIA B. LUGOFF.
ASSEMBLED at New York at the Ferenc Vecsey recital given recently were some of the most famous players of the country. The group was in New York to honor Christian Sinding, one of the great composers, who is visiting in this country; and it included: Joseph Stravinsky, conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra; Prof. Alf. Klingenberg, head of the Esplanade Conservatory of Music; Eusebio Goldmark, composer; Harold Bauer, pianist; and Daniel Frohman, theatrical manager.

The program for the Ferenc Vecsey violin recital which will be given Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the university gymnasium, is one which best illustrates Vecsey's skillful technique. The pieces will include:

- Concerto for violin in E minor, Opus 64—Mendelssohn
- Allegro Molto Appassionato—Andante
- Melodie—Gluck
- Praeludium e Allegro—Pugnani-Kreisler
- Capriccio No. 2 (Cascade)—Vecsey
- Capriccio, No. 1 (Le Vent)—Vecsey

- Airs Russes—Wieniawski
- La Ronde des Lutins—Bazinski

The coming of Nelson Illingworth, Australian baritone singer, to Madison, Dec. 5, at Music hall is an event which should prove of special interest to music lovers of the city. Since his arrival in the United States, about a year ago, Illingworth has been a prominent figure in the musical world.

He uses all his talents to bring out the song which he is singing. Voice, art, personality, are the means by which he gives the true interpretation of his musical number.

Says he in regard to the art of singing: "The only real difficulty in these sophisticated days is to be simple. To voice one's feelings and thoughts in just so many words, to dare to be ourselves—that is the only royal road to art."

The University Men's Glee club, directed by E. E. Swinney of the University Music School, will give a recital Dec. 16 in Music hall. Among the numbers of the program will be the cantata, "Loch-Invar," by Hammond.

Erika Morini, the young violin genius who will appear here for a recital on Dec. 16th at the Christ Presbyterian church was greeted by a veritable avalanche of superlatives by the musical critics of New York on the occasion of her debut there last January.

"These critics, after witnessing a five-year siege of excellent violinists, had grown weary of giving praise. But not until Erika Morini appeared, without one single word in advance publicity, did the critics unanimously go back to the first principle of shouting with joy at the appearance of a real genius. They used the word genius in the headlines and in their articles. As Max Smith said in The American, after verifying his first enthusiastic impressions by listening to two further recitals, Erika Morini is use the word, but Erika Morini is a genius of the fiddle if ever there was one."

Cattle Stamped Climax to "Sky Pilot" at the Grand

A human-interest story backed up by dramatic incidents which climax in a mad cattle stampede is "The Sky Pilot," which will be shown for a four day engagement at the Grand theater, beginning tomorrow.

The story is taken from Ralph Connor's book of the same title. There is no doubt but that the scenes of the cattle stampede in which 4,000 panic-stricken cattle are seen dashing madly on toward the form of the helpless little ranch girl will forever remain in the minds of movie fans. John Bowers plays the part of "The Sky Pilot," with Colleen Moore as Gwen, David Butler as the ranch foreman, and others in the cast are Harry Todd, Kathleen Kirkham, Donald MacDonald and James Corrigan.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

The filming of Booth Tarkington's conquest of Canaan, which comes to the Majestic theater tomorrow, is another example of the close co-operation of the author and producer, a new procedure in motion picture making recently inaugurated by the Paramount company. Although the continuity for the photoplay was written by Frank Wright Tuttle, Mr. Tarkington revised the script, adding many pertinent suggestions which helped to catch the proper atmosphere.

PEACE OR THE SWORD?

*The Nations Meet in Washington To-Day!
A World Looks On—Anxious—Hoping—*

"Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hope of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!"

Washington Will Be the Capital of the World During the Arms Congress. There the question will be decided whether the civilized peoples of the world are to abjure war, and whether the battleship and siege-gun are to become as obsolete as the Roman catapult. Hundreds of millions are watching anxiously. The great Conference is being discussed in every civilized country on earth. What are they all saying about it? What are their hopes, and fears, and criticisms, and demands? It is necessary not only to know our own mind but to know also the viewpoint of all other peoples, especially of those most vitally concerned in the outcome.

Therefore The Literary Digest has gathered from all the four corners of the earth the opinions of statesmen and people as reflected in their press. This is one of the great features of the November 12th issue, now on sale.

The Composite Mind of the British Empire is disclosed, as from that far-flung "dominion over palm and pine" come evidences of a spontaneous entente between the English-speaking peoples of the earth. The Literary Digest presents the views of England, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India and the British West Indies.

MANY STARTLING FACTS known to the Conference, will influence any action it may take. These facts are not easily accessible to the public. Without them intelligent discussion is impossible. There is one way to get a comprehensive grasp of the many facts which must be weighed and related before any conclusion can be reached. THE LITERARY DIGEST has with great care gathered these facts, and made them plain with diagrams, pictures, charts, and maps, in its ISSUE OF NOVEMBER 12th, which is

Many Fail to Glimpse Life of Wisconsin

Prof. Gardner Says Lack of Contact Injures University

"An astounding number of students of Wisconsin never get a glimpse into the real Wisconsin life. They come into the university, and in four years go out, sheepskin in hand, with as little knowledge of the real activities and spirit of Wisconsin as when they entered," said Prof. E. H. Gardner, of the commerce school, yesterday.

"This element in college loses much by not getting into things, and the university is impeded in its ideal toward progress and civilization by the lack of contact with these people."

"It is for these people more than anyone else that we are erecting the Memorial Union. We want them all to get right in the center of Wisconsin life, and go away filled with the brim with memories, life-long devotion to their Alma Mater, and a feeling that their university career has been the fullest and best possible."

Sacrifice and indifference are the main situations that the canvassers have met. The many phases of student life existing on the campus are being discovered. Students are being living on the "third floor back," studying and trying to earn at the same time, men and women who know nothing of the fascinating whirl called "college life," people who have no conception of that great "Wisconsin spirit."

To these, as well as those who died in service, the "Home for Wisconsin spirit" is being erected. "There is not a student in this school who would not feel sorry to miss this chance to do something really fine and splendid for posterity as well as himself. Ask each one this question, and he will line up on the right side," concluded Professor Gardner.

Agrics May Conduct Song Contest Soon
A song contest to obtain songs for the College of Agriculture will be conducted in the near future if it seems advisable to the committee appointed to investigate at the meeting of the A. C. F. board recently.

The Agrics now have only one song which, it is claimed, is known to about 10 per cent of the people in the college. It is for the purpose of getting a number of new songs and arousing interest in Ag activities that the contest will be conducted.

It was also decided to make preparations for a welcome to the students in the short term course. A chairman for the event will be appointed in a few days.

The Poultry club which was organized in the college last year was recognized by the A. C. F. board and a representative from the club will be accepted on the board immediately.

The board voted not to take a page in the Badge this year, but to use the money for more immediate needs.

Dinner To Be Given For Michigan Band
The Michigan band and the alumni who are here for the Michigan-Wisconsin game will be entertained by the Michigan Alumni association of Madison, this evening at 6:30 at a dinner at the Capitol cafe. The 70 members of the Michigan band are expected to attend the banquet.

"We extend an invitation to all Michigan alumni to attend the affair and are making plans for a large number," said Dr. Earl C. Sherrard, chairman of the local committee.

The guests will include Coaches T. E. Jones, J. R. Richards, and F. H. Yost.

Arrangements have been made to have the alumni and band meet at the Park hotel at 6 o'clock, after which they will go to the Capitol.

Shen Heads New Chinese Department
The Chinese students of the University of Wisconsin have lately established a Speakers and Friendly Relations department, the function of which is to furnish speakers who will discuss the Chinese problems which will come up before the Disarmament conference.

Leo Shen, graduate of Wisconsin and member of Sigma Delta Chi, is chairman of the committee. Mr. Shen is working to acquaint those who are interested in such affairs with the various questions which will come before the conference. The meetings are held in order to promote the international truth, and the speakers are furnished free of charge.

International Club Wires Resolution To Arms Parley
The following resolution was wired yesterday by the International club to the Disarmament conference at Washington and to President Harding:

"We, the International Club of the University of Wisconsin, with a membership representing both the great and the small nations, earnestly appeal to the disarmament conference at Washington to bring about as speedy and complete a limitation of armaments as possible, thus to give fuller realization to the motto of the International club of the world: Above all Nations is Humanity."

Alleged "Bluebeard" Says Hands Are Clean
VERSAILLES—Henri Landru, alleged "Bluebeard," dropped, today, the aloof attitude maintained since the opening of his trial on charges of having committed 11 murders, 10 of them of women. He entered a stout denial of his guilt. "There is no blood on my hands; they perhaps are not absolutely clean but they never shed a drop of human blood," he said. The trial judge today began the direct examination of the prisoner concerning the disappearance of Desire Guillin, Landru's alleged third victim. The prisoner insisted upon referring to her as "one of the hundreds of missing women who disappear yearly in Paris."

Belief in a Personal God

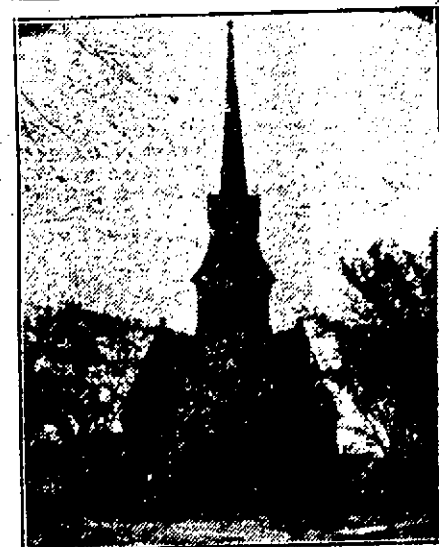

The word "God" is the English name for the infinitely perfect, eternal and self-existent Spirit who created and Who governs the universe. God is everywhere, but God is neither the soul of the universe, nor is the universe any part of God. Our limitations compel us to speak of God as we speak of men, but as intelligent believers, we realize fully that God has no bodily form and that He is decidedly not a merely magnified man.

The term "Personal God" means that God, the Creator, is Himself and not His creation, the universe. It means that God is essentially and eternally independent of the universe, even though the universe is dependent upon Him both for its existence and preservation. By substituting muddled imagining for clear thinking, some people identify God with the universe (pantheism), but that makes prayer absurd and sin impossible. If, as part of the universe, I am a part of God, prayer would be self-worship and what we call sin would be the act of God for which I could have no responsibility whatsoever. Both morality and religion imply necessarily belief in a Personal God.—Pilgrim.

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trege Montgomery

In trying to open the last fall Billy made such a racket banging it against the others and against the stones that he attracted the attention of the workmen outside, and they came to see what was the cause of the noise.

The first man to look in was a fat Dutchman who, seeing the goat, exclaimed:

"Minn Got in Mammel, id iss one fat billie goadt and he had kobbled up mine bologna sausage, already yet."

"What you say?" asked a yellow haired Swede, coming down the ladder and looking through the window.

"Hey, shoo, come ahead out of dere pretty quick, mid yerself, before brain you," shouted the Dutchman at Billy; but Billy stood his ground until the Dutchman picked up a club and started after him. As the man appeared in the doorway, Billy gave one bound and went out of the shed between his legs, laying the Dutchman flat on his back.

Round the corner he went, upsetting the ladder on which the Swede was standing, looking through the window laughing at the Dutchman's upset. He was so surprised at the suddenness of it all that he sat on the pile of sand on which he had fallen and stared at Billy with open mouth.

When he came to his senses he began to throw stones and pieces of brick at Billy, one of which hit him on the side and making him

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Will you please advise me whether I have done right or wrong?

I am a girl 19 years old and am at present keeping company with a young man about 23. He is a very nice young man, but is Swedish, while I am not. My folks do not approve of this man because of his nationality, but in so far as his character and habits are concerned he is one of the finest young men I have met. Should I keep company with him regardless of my parents' wishes? Every one who knows him speaks highly of him.

Last night something happened which caused me a great deal of embarrassment. I had a date with another young man last night and the first man did not like it. This young man has a good character also, but I do not know him so well as the first, as I have not been with him so much. The first young man said that if I went with him in the car or even at all he would never speak to me again. I had intended to go until the last moment and then to keep friends all around I had to break my date. I do not know whether I did right or wrong. I am not engaged to the other man, although he has proposed to me several times. I like him as a friend, however, but I don't think it was fair for him to insist that I choose one or the other, do you?

Do you think my parents are doing right in forbidding my coming right? Or do you believe I should go with the young man that pleases them and let the other go. In my heart I feel that I shouldn't have broken the date last night, but perhaps it isn't wise to go with more than one young man at a time.

ANXIOUS.

It seems to me narrow to object to a worthy young man simply because he is not American born.

As a matter of fact, the Swedes are known for their trustworthy characters and steadfastness, and they are said to make good husbands. Since America prides itself on being the melting pot of the nations, it seems to me inconsistent for American people to object to their foreign brother who is of as good character.

You seem to be undecided in your regard for the young man, and therefore I do not believe you love him as deeply as he does you. Since he cares enough for you to ask you to be his wife, it was all right for him to object to your going out with the other young man, or at least to give you his choice. If you love the Swede I think you did the right thing and the only thing in complying with his request.

Yes, I think your parents should permit you to have callers. They should also let you make your own decision about the Swede.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: There is a very good-looking young man here in town whom I am very anxious to meet. I know no one that he knows and I don't know how to become acquainted with him. Would it be proper for me to ask for an introduction to him? I am twenty-one years old and considered good-looking and popular. I have been with a lot of fellows, but this one seems to be the "one man." Please tell me how I can become acquainted.

Would it be proper for a girl to ask a fellow to call on her, or

With The Women of Today

By Edith Moriarty.

Mme. Keji Yajama, the ninety-year-old president of a girls' school in Tokio, is in this country to present to the American people what she calls the "peace petition," signed by 10,200 women of Japan. It has been said that nowhere in the world are the women making such strides as in Japan, and Mme. Yajama herself is an illustration of the great advance that is being made by her country women.

She was the first Japanese woman permitted by the Japanese government to teach and she has been president of the girls' school for forty years. For thirty-five years she has been president of the Y. W. C. A. of Japan. It was money presented to her for her old age which the madam decided to take for her journey to this country.

Mme. Yajama hopes by her visit to help cement peace between her own country and the United States and aid in bringing peace to the world. Through an interpreter, Mme. Yajama said:

"The Japanese women's anxiety to join with the American women in promoting peace shows, I think, their warmth of feeling toward the

It is not your place to arrange for an introduction. You will be much happier, my dear, if you forget about this young man and content yourself with the friends who come to you naturally. After a man has shown interest in a girl it is all right for her to invite him to call, but she should leave it to him to set the time.

one who could say that they knew anything about it but the rumor. We have yellow papers in Japan as you have in America, which like to publish sensational news and stir up the public to sell their papers. I do not believe they express the sentiments of the people of either country."

WOMAN'S RULES FOR SUCCESS

Miss Katherine F. Worley presides over Nebraska's state board of control in a swivel chair sufficient to accommodate two of her size, according to an exchange, but she is big enough to direct expenditure of more than $5,000,000 biennially.

Her job is to look after the financial affairs of Nebraska's eighteen penal, charitable and correctional institutions. She has the final decision on the appointment of every official in these establishments and also bears the ultimate responsibility for their economic and practical operation and efficiency.

Many are the inquiries from other women asking how she "did it" that this state board chairman receives. Here is some of the advice she sends back:

"Meet your fellow man on an equal footing."

"Study him, aid him, reach his nature and lend your treatment to his ailment."

"Maintain an average business hand with everyday experience gives you."

"Practice the same judgment in welding the affairs of your neighbor as you would your own, whether they be large ones or small ones, rich ones or poor ones."

"Instinct, environment, common sense and an ordinary education, together with an aim toward the right principles, will put you to your goal."

SYMPTOMS WOMEN DREAD

Mrs. Wilson's Letter Should Be Read by All Women

Clearfield, Pa.—"After my last child was born last September I was unable to do all of my own work. I had severe pains in my left side every month and had fever and sick dizzy spells and such pains during my periods, which lasted two weeks. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. It did others so much good and thought I would give it a trial. I have been very glad that I did, for now I feel much stronger and do all of my work. I tell my friends when they ask me what helped me, and they think it must be a grand medicine. And it is. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish."

—Mrs. HARRY A. WILSON, R. F. D. 3, Clearfield, Pa.

The experience and testimony of such women as Mrs. Wilson prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct such troubles by removing the cause and restoring the system to a normal condition. When such symptoms develop as backache, bearing-down pains, displacements, nervousness and "the blues" a woman cannot too promptly try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Maize and Blue Here For Critical Grid Battle With Badger Eleven

Badgers Play Last Contest of Year Here

20,000 People to See Bitter Contest at Randall Today

BY DUKE
The weather and warmer, and a promising dry field, will present an ideal stage for the most important Wisconsin Conference football contest this afternoon at Camp Randall at Madison. Bringing together the Maize and Blue eleven of the University of Wisconsin and the Cardinal-Red eleven of the University of Wisconsin.

It promises to be a good battle, both teams promising surprises. The Badgers are known to be strong; the Wolverines' strength is hardly measurable, since they have added to their personnel upwards of eight stars, who so far have not participated in a Big Ten game.

The Badgers and Wolverines can vary their attack to play an aerial game, an old-style massed formation plunging contest, or a combination of the two. Two of the best punters in the conference will match their toes on Saturday. Frank Stokette, premier field goal kicker and punter, is due to stack up against Capt. Guy Sundt in a heating duel if the two contending teams are unable to gain consistently by carrying the oval.

Wet Field Will Handicap
A wet field which means a wet ball would be a distinct handicap to the open game which Wisconsin and Michigan choose to use at times. But Wisconsin showed in its decisive victory over Minnesota that a lighter outfit could win on a sloppy field of mud. Michigan will put up a stronger game than did the valiant northern. Speedier, and with almost as heavy a line as the Gophers, Michigan is a rival of the Badgers in the Wisconsin championship hopes.

If the Wolverines come off the field with victory in their possession, the chance of a Badger title for the year will be lost. If the Badgers win, they have Chicago to down before any claim for championship honors will be considered. Yost's Men Primed
This is the first time this year that Yost will be able to throw his full force on the field. His men are coming for a tough battle and are determined more than ever to conquer Wisconsin in the game which means renewal of football traditions between the two institutions. With Yost it is not a question of winning a football contest. It is a question of keeping in the good graces of alumni and students who have been clamoring for his return since the downfall of Michigan athletic prowess.

A promising two week period of training for the two teams ended with a signal drill Friday afternoon. Both coaches have refused to divulge their starting lineup. It is said that "Hollie" Williams will lead the team with Capt. Sundt at fullback and "Rowdy" Elliott at right half. Either Gould or Olson will step in at left half. Gould seems to be the logical choice because of his effective work against Minnesota. If he starts, "T" will play half on offense and left end on defense. "Woody" Woods is slated for the right half and defensive half position. Gould draws the backfield.

Michigan Backfield Powerful
The Michigan backfield is one of the most powerful in the Big Ten. Led by Stokette, All-American fullback, the Wolverines have a powerful aerial or ground attack. Banks or Uteritz will run the regular halves, and Roby will play fullback. He was the team's principal ground gain in the win over Illinois.

The Wisconsin line will remain the same as that which has battled the Badgers. The line will make few changes in its primary defense.

Palestine Builders to Meet Big foe Sunday

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock will witness a battle royal between the Palestine Builders, a university organization, composed of Hebrew boys, and the Menorah club, also a Jewish organization. This game is an annual affair. The Palestine Builders have an edge in games won, seven to six. Both teams are composed of former high school stars.

Don Hansen, on the freshman squad will pilot the Menorah team, while Eugene Sinaiko, former Madison high school star, will be at right half. Stone, former North Division star will be at the other half. Herb Nickelson, 200 pound husky, will fill in at fullback. Another star of the team is Herman Sinaiko, former center on the Minnesota freshman team. The ends will be filled in by Herman Halperine and Leo Shapiro, local boys, while Myron Halperin and L. Brill, tackle on West Division team of last year, will fill in the tackles. Isaac Sinaiko and Joe Sinaiko will play guards.

The Palestine Builders will be led by Monfried, quarterback. Mandelbur will play fullback. Others are: Perlman, center; Mosher, R. G.; Reikman, R. T.; Silverstone, R. T.; Loroff, L. E. The game will be called at 10 o'clock at Camp Randall.

Give Badgers Credit; Work Is Big Proof

Score 142 Points Against Opponents' 3; Goal Not Crossed

BY DUKE
Wisconsin's goal line has been crossed but thrice in 12 games during the past and present season! That's the record of the Badgers. Why is it, then, that Wisconsin's football teams are not given the credit due them by sporting writer outside of Madison? For three years in succession the Badgers have whipped the Illini—pet hobby of Chicago sport writers, and for three years have performed similarly against the Maroon eleven. For the two years past it has defeated Minnesota. There are three of the strongest Big Ten teams—all humbled repeatedly by Wisconsin.

Last year Wisconsin scored 81 points to its opponents' 29—almost three times as many points. This year Wisconsin's points total 142 already to its opponent's 3, more than 47 times as many points!

Not only has the Illini been beaten, but during the past two years have failed to cross the Badger goal line. Last year Wisconsin whipped them 14 to 9, Fletcher doing the only scoring for his team by booting three field goals. This year Wisconsin triumphed 28 to 0, invading the Sucker camp. Minnesota succumbed to Al Davey's toe last year for a 3 to 0 win, and this year met defeat on Camp Randall 35 to 0. Chicago lost to the Cardinal 3 to 0 last year, and the Badgers hope to repeat with a win next week.

Now for the other conference teams. Northwestern was the first to feel the sting of defeat at Wisconsin's hands last year, when the Cardinal-jerseyed players plowed through the Purple warriors for a 27 to 7 victory. Coach McDevitt's men, together with Ohio State, were the only teams to get the oval over the Badger goal line.

Minnesota, Illinois and Chicago were humbled in succession by scores of 3 to 0; 14 to 0; and 3 to 0. Then came the Buckeye game at Columbus when Wisconsin outplayed and almost defeated the Silver and Gray team. A forward pass in the last seconds of play netted Ohio a second touchdown and victory, 13 to 7. Pre-conference games showed Wisconsin strong. They shut out the Michigan Aggies 27 to 0, and Lawrence college 20 to 0.

This year three Western conference teams have been disposed of by the shut out route. The Northwestern game ended 27 to 0 in Wisconsin's favor; next the Illini dropped their game, 28 to 0, and two weeks ago, the Badgers trampled over Minnesota on a muddy field for a 35 to 0 win. Today it is Michigan—late this afternoon you will see another Badger victory chalked up and another conference team disposed of, leaving the Cardinal eleven a clean slate when it faces its biggest foe, the Chicago Maroons, next Saturday.

Wisconsin's preliminary games this year were both easy victories. The Varsity did not extend itself to whip the South Dakota Aggies, 24 to 3. A team that has scored almost three times the number of points scored against it last year, and whose points this year, even though it should lose its remaining games, will be far greater than the number scored against it, should be reckoned with by every sporting writer in the country.

If Wisconsin wins its remaining contests, who is to say that she is not logically the choice for first place in the conference standings? Iowa's goal line has been crossed twice this year. Ohio has been beaten by little Oberlin college. True, Oberlin is not in the conference, but should not the entire season's work be taken into consideration if you are to rate the teams as they logically should be rated? The Badgers have shown themselves superior to the Hawkeyes on the grounds that they have met or will meet of the teams in the major conference—Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan and Chicago—while Iowa meets only two of these teams—Illinois and Minnesota, both of whom were early eliminated from the race.

70,000 Expected at Yale-Princeton Game

NEW YORK—The Bulldog of Yale, unleashed, met the roving Tiger from Princeton at New Haven today in the second of football's Big Three clashes of the season. An attendance of more than 70,000 was anticipated. Marshal Foch was to attend the game. The Princeton eleven was rated highly because of its victory over Harvard, but Yale, undefeated during the season, was ready with its most formidable array and seemed an equal choice. Up Boston way Harvard had Brown for its afternoon guest while on Franklin field, Philadelphia, the Naval Cadets and Penn State prepared for their offensives.

Marinette in 20 to 0 Win Over Menominee

MARINETTE, Wis.—Marinette High trounced Menominee 20 to 0 before 10,000 people in the annual clash here Friday afternoon. Menominee was out fought and out graded throughout the entire game. They got within Marinette forty yard line only once and that through a fumble. One of the features of the game was Capt. Barsky's seventy-six yard dash for a touchdown.

Many Crucial Games to Be Played Today

Clash Here is Feature of Conference Tilts Today

Today is one of the most crucial days of the year in state, sectional, and national football circles. The feature clashes of the day are those between Wisconsin and Michigan in the west, and between Yale and Princeton in the east.

All three of the teams which remain in the 1,000 per cent column of the Big Ten conference will see action today. Coach Dietz's Boiler-makers travel to Columbus to meet the Buckeyes and Indiana plays Iowa at Iowa City. Chicago and Illinois, both of whom have already been eliminated from championship consideration, will play a homecoming game at Urbana.

Zuppke's machine will be stronger when it faces the Maroons than it has been against any team this fall. Crangle, Peden, and Walquist will undoubtedly be in the lineup. The combined effect of these three men in the game would be liable to make them dangerous opponents.

22 Real Huskie Mix it up Today Declares Chuck

By CHUCK
Br-r-r-r-r-r-r! Get ready for the wet blanket. For its coming, as sure as the rent bill and the check from home.

Wisconsin rooters don't know their team plays Michigan this afternoon. They think its going to be a tiff with Madison high school or a game of water polo between the Tea Hounds and the Lounge Lizards. It may seem like water polo but 22 real huskies will be playing it.

To hear some of these bimbos ejaculate, all Michigan has is a hospital list and a working knowledge of the Lord's Prayer. They expect to see the Wolverines come hobbling out on crutches. They think Fielding Yost is "just a great, big boy," that he cats sugared dates for breakfast, and that his football team is here to advertise the Michigan Memorial union.

When those big babies from Ann Arbor get going, it won't look like a Barnard open house. It will look like the replica of the sunken road will be sunk, though.

Michigan will bring its freshman football team and a 65-piece band. Wisconsin had a frosh-soph game the other day to send the yearlings to Chicago. There wasn't enough money raised to send the outfit to Middleton. Those boys do things on a large scale. Only 1,500 rooters are here to see the game. If 1,500 Wisconsin students went away at the same time, the faculty would hunk the school. There would be a reception committee which wouldn't receive.

But all this to one side, get ready to see a football contest, not a prize wait, today. Take your girl to the game, but forget about her.

Madison Men Split In Games With Visitors

Madison and Milwaukee men fought to a tie in the handball contest at the City Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening in the feature of the inter-city business men's games and get-together banquet at which the wives of the men were guests. The visitors will remain for the Wisconsin-Michigan football game today.

Madison business men copped the first series of three games of handball from the Green City team, by scores of 21 to 6; 21 to 14 and 21 to 17. The Milwaukeeans came back strong in the second series, winning 21 to 4; 21 to 7; and 21 to 12. The visitors won the indoor baseball game 7 to 6. The locals were represented by a team from the industrial league. They also defeated Madison in bowling. Ten men defeated Madison's team in a 200-pin match by a majority of 66. Milwaukee's second team also defeated Madison's second team.

The Capitol City volleyball squad, however, severely trounced the visitors, the local's first team winning the three game series, 15 to 13; 15 to 11, and 15 to 13. Madison's second team won a two game series, 15 to 8 and 15 to 13.

Lawrence Ready For Tilt With Ripon

APPLETON, Wis.—Appleton is in gala array with blue and white, the colors of Lawrence college, everywhere in evidence, welcoming alumni back for the second annual homecoming, marking the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of the college. A big two day program was arranged, starting on Friday. The Ripon-Lawrence football game Saturday afternoon to decide the championship of the "Little Five" conference and a big banquet in Armory G Saturday night will wind up the festivities.

Racine Calls Off Contest With Locals

Muddy Field Makes Tilt Impossible at Lake Shore City

The Madison high school-Racine game, scheduled to be played this afternoon at the Lake Shore city, was called off by Racine officials early today, owing to the condition of the field. Two days of rain has made the field muddy and impossible to play on.

Jordan Car Co. Has Cleaned Out Old Stock
One of the most encouraging signs for real business revival, is indicative of the thorough way in which some of the aggressive automobile companies have cleaned out their inventories.

"This," says Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Co., "is the most needed thing in business today. The very fact that our new car was equipped with a new Jordan motor, a new instrument board, new lamps, is proof to the public that our old inventory is entirely gone and that the parts for the new car were purchased on the basis of new and lower prices."

STUDENTS DEMAND REASON FOR FACULTY'S ACTION ON NEARING

(From the Daily Cardinal)
Editor Daily Cardinal:
It seems to me that the rebuke of the president of the university to the Cardinal on its editorial for free speech does not at all settle this matter of refusing the university gymnasium to the Social Science club for its last meeting, at which Scott Nearing spoke. Attacking the truth of the statements made by the paper leaves untouched the main issue itself: What is the principle on which is based the refusal or permission of a university platform to a speaker duly sponsored by some university organization?

WHAT'S THE IDEA.
Editor Daily Cardinal:
In introducing Scott Nearing for his lecture, the chairman, a graduate of Wisconsin, pointed to our university as a great liberal institution where all ideas are given unbiased and equal hearing. We all believed that our university is such an institution. I doubt whether we all believe so now. Unhappily the faith of some must have been shaken, when our faculty refused the use of the university gymnasium for the lecture. By its action the faculty directly repudiated the chairman's fine eulogy of Wisconsin's spirit and ideals.

From these facts, I draw the conclusion that the principle on which the university bases its refusal or admission of a speaker to a university platform is this: It is not wrong in every and any case to allow a speaker to present his views to an audience of the public and other students besides the members of the organization sponsoring him. But it is wrong to allow some speakers to do so. That is, it is educational to hear one side of a question, that side approved of by the authorities. But the side not so approved is not educational, but propagandizing. And propaganda is an evil god and should be excluded from our midst.

These are the conclusions one must come to in the absence of any definite statement by the president on what principle he does base refusals and permissions. The building of a Memorial Union so near to the interests of us all, makes this issue all the more important. Are we to have any positive statement regarding the use of the forum in our new student building? In view of the results from the lack of some such positive statement heretofore, I, for one, shall withhold my modest subscription until I am assured that any speaker a student organization wishes to hear shall have the right to use the forum there.

Experiment Station Vital Factor—Russell

The agricultural experiment station, constantly carrying on research work to open up new facts, in farming, is essentially the living spring that vitalizes all other phases of agricultural instruction. H. L. Russell, dean of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture and president of the association of land grant colleges said here today in a statement. Land grant colleges existing under combined federal and state support must be properly financed, and must induce the best and brightest students to enter their experiment stations or face stagnation, Dean Russell says. "The industrial depression that has hit agriculture this last year," Dean Russell declares, "will certainly not induce as many youths to look forward to this field as was the case five or six years ago. The lure of the commercial field during the past two years has led our students to neglect research. Add to this the financial status of too many of our experiment stations and the outlook to secure the best to go into agriculture is poor. The result is that the younger element in the station staffs has become sadly depleted, and unless these faculties are constantly recruited with fresh blood they soon grow stagnant."

DATE OF TRYOUTS FOR UNION VODVIL ACTS ANNOUNCED

Acts Already Entered Give Indication of Well-balanced Program

The first tryouts for Union Vodvil will be held next Monday and Tuesday nights at 7 o'clock in the hall. Those who have already registered will be notified by the production manager on which night they are to appear.

Although many good acts of all varieties are now booked with the production staff, the committee is calling for magicians, jugglers, and contortionists. Anyone who can offer an act of this type is urged to call Carl Bronson, in charge of productions, at Badger 975. There is plenty of time in which to work up a good act, and any group or individual who is able to offer anything in the variety line is cordially invited to tryout.

Acts which have been entered so far give every indication of well constructed program, and it appears as if the judges will have no real difficulty in deciding which acts are best. The judges who have been appointed for this task are: William Purnell '22, Dick Tyrrell '22, and Ralph Scheinpflug '23.

"If the quality of the acts already entered is an index to the merit of the final production, Union Vodvil this year will be, without doubt, the best ever," said Carl Bronson '22, as he was arranging tryout dates for the acts yesterday. "On account of the postponement of last year's Union Vodvil an unusual amount of talent has come out for the 1921 show, and from the way things are going now, we believe that this year's Vodvil will be a knockout."

All net proceeds of the Union Vodvil will go toward swelling the fund of the Memorial Union building. December 9 and 10 are the dates set for the presentation of the show which will be held in the remodeled Fuller theater.

STOUGHTON — Prof. W. W. Brown, principal of the Stoughton high school, had nearly all the pupils out for the parade yesterday morning and they carried banners at each section, some saying "Armistice Day," others "We Want Peace," and then about half way down the line we read: "Pay the Soldier." It was a big procession, consisting of a band, a school band with a snare drum, kept up a lively step. The daughters of the G. A. R.; The Woman's Relief Corps, the Mothers of Liberty, and there may have been other patriotic orders on the ladies' side, that marched. They carried the flag and some had flowers. No automobiles were used, at which every one was pleased. Captain Larson, commanding Co. L, Wisconsin National Guard, also a member of the Stoughton high school faculty, had charge of the proceedings yesterday afternoon in honor of Mr. Brown, with Major H. A. Keenan, surgeon U. S. Reserves as Marshal. The Major was mounted.

The march was continued from the high school building to the First Baptist church corner and then returned back on Main street to the city hall, where only the older pupils of the school and the various societies were admitted to listen to an able address by Prof. E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin, who spoke strongly in favor of disarmament. Patriotic songs were sung, in which the audience joined. All stood up and observed the zero hour in honor of the departed dead. Mr. Brown's successful effort received commendation by the ex-service men. Mr. Brown was a lieutenant abroad.

The whistle at the shops of the Stoughton Wagon Co. and that of the Moline Plow company were blown at the zero hour, as was the water works whistle much longer. Ex-service men did not turn out as they might have done yesterday. One of them said that he wished he were dead, so that he might be honored. Said that millions of dollars were spent to bring back bodies from Europe and for armistice day, and to honor Foch and not a dollar for the living ex-soldier.

A memorial wreath made by the pupils of Miss Himm in manual training was placed yesterday near the bronze memorial tablet on the city library.

Says an item from the high school—
"The science department of the high school has been devoting a part of its class time this week to a study of the high explosives made today, and a consideration of the fact that a nation which continues to concentrate its efforts on destruction will in time destroy itself."

The children of the Goff school, south of town had a program armistice day. Mrs. Ray G. Patterson entertained Thursday evening a number of friends, with Miss Alice Hale as a guest of honor. Miss Hale, daughter of P. I. Hale, Stoughton dry goods merchant for a generation, will be married at the end of the month to a Chicago architect. Miss Hale was made a valuable present. Two Verona Stores Are Burglarized

Thieves Take $500 Worth of Clothing; Also Enter Ford Garage

Two Verona stores were burglarized during the night of Friday night and upwards of $500 worth of clothing and automobile accessories taken. The jewelry and merchandise store of Grubbs and Paulson was entered through the back door and sheepskins, coats, underwear, overcoats, hats, gloves and other articles of clothing stolen. The firm estimated their loss at about $500.

Marks left by an automobile which had stopped in front of the back door, were discovered this morning. This leads the firm to believe that it was not a Verona resident who entered the building. The Ford garage also was entered and several automobile tires, tubes and automobile extras taken. Stanley Shumann, proprietor, could not make an estimate of his loss. Sheriff W. H. McCormick at Madison was notified this morning.

John R. Purcell, 329 W. Washington ave., a university sophomore, fell in the gymnasium yesterday morning and fractured his left wrist.

Great was the manifestation of the Badger spirit at the annual meeting of the American Legion in Kansas City, Mo., October 31, November 1 and 2.

The World's Town Meeting
(By WM. ALLEN WHITE)

THE Disarmament Conference will only repeat the blunders men made at Paris unless the peoples of the earth can sit in the conference. It must be, indeed, the world's town meeting. Until the world does have a town meeting, it will not be safe for democracy. And we Americans, who have staked our whole fortunes upon democracy, must stand for the publicity which sustains democracy.

It's the same old game, with the same old counters for the same old stakes. Now, shall the devil close the doors and run the same old cards in the same old course? There you are. If we are to have a world safe for democracy, we must begin to act like a democracy, not continue to ape the ponderous secrecy and poppycock of the outworn autocracies. Secrecy was their strongest weapon. It is our one vital danger. Without publicity as, for instance, the American Congress has or the British Parliament enjoys—the conference of the Allies will become a feudal council and its final agreement a war-breeding alliance.

Who shall guide America in that conference? Four men and with sometimes a suggestion from President Harding, who already is burdened almost to the breaking point with domestic affairs? These men are splendid delegates; their superiors will not sit in the conference. But the wisdom of the American people is their superior. The people have rights in that conference, which are inherent in their rights to a republican form of government. They should sit in the conference only through the utmost publicity.

And that publicity is entirely possible. It is possible in the United States Congress, in the French Assembly, in the British Parliament. Much may be done in committees; proposals may be drafted there. But while proposals are under debate, the debate and the vote upon the proposals should be before the people of the world.

Today America's one hope is in an open conference. The things we are asking are realizable. The lever of European chaos makes us irresistible in our demands if we state these demands daily in their clearest, simplest terms to mankind. This can be done only through debate and official utterance. There is no channel by which debate and official utterance can reach the nations of mankind if the conference is closed. The weight of liberal opinion all over England, France, Japan, and Italy cannot crush the imperialistic designs of the actual governments of these countries if we withhold the facts from free, open, intelligent discussion in the world, while the questions are pending. It will do no good to record our good intentions in history. We must see that our good intentions make history.

Men make their noblest professions and square them with their greatest deeds while they are being watched. Open diplomacy is the safest diplomacy.

Michigan

THERE will be a sentimental feeling of gratification among the "old-timers" today when the kickoff again starts relations between Michigan and old Wisconsin. It will bring back "the old days" to thousands.

For the first time since 1905 the Cardinal today meets the warriors from Ann Arbor. In those good old days of twenty years ago the Michigan game found a yearly place on Wisconsin's schedule and in those days Michigan had SOME team!

Remember the year the grandstand fell in Chicago when Willie Heston, the giant Michigan halfback, ran rings around our fellows? Remember Germany Schultz, Boss Weeks, the Hammond boys, Norcross and the other stars who used to sparkle for the Wolverines?

We are glad that Wisconsin and Michigan have quit pouting at each other and are again on friendly relations. May the Wolverine and the Cardinal meet each year for years to come!

THE ORIGIN OF A POLITICAL SPECIES
[To the Editor:] I wish to call the attention of the Hon. W. J. B. and other doubters to the latest evidence of the reality of the theory of evolution and the origin of species, and I challenge them to account for the result on any other than the Darwinian theory.

There has recently been evolved a brand new species of the genus Stalwart which was never seen, nor even heard of before.

The origin of this species is the most marvelous in nature (human nature, of course), and is attracting—and trying to attract—wide attention. The fact that it appeared simultaneously in many parts of the state has seemingly puzzled political prognosticators and professors of flim-flam propaganda who assert that they can find no trace of collusion, coercion, cooperation, or common guidance. Myriads of specimens, they tell us, arose spontaneously from the muck and quagmires in which such political larvae are usually found, and without orders from anyone; nay, without so much as an invitation, all hastened to Milwaukee to attend a banquet and submit to a rigid analysis by a group of Ph. D.'s (Doctors of Political Humbuggery) who established the fact that some of the links try to pose as the genus Progressive, that they are the illegitimate offspring of an unholy alliance between degenerated progressives and unregenerated stalwarts, and that the most appropriate name for such a species is "Sane progressives."

The name was aptly chosen. "Sane," is derived from the Greek and means "Sound," which is defined by Webster as, "Noise without signification." This is the predominating attribute of the species and describes it accurately.

Thus the correctness of the Darwinian theory is established beyond peradventure, but if further evidence is required it is furnished by this interesting phenomenon. It will be recalled that Darwin believed that the more remote ancestors of the genus Homo were more ape-like than man-like. Whether he had reference to their appearance or their habits I am unable to say, but the apishness of the "Sane (?) Progressives" cannot be denied. They ape the Progressives in various ways—assume their name and imitate their habits; they call a conference instead of a "convention" as was customary with their paternal and financial ancestors; they ape the "Committee of 48"—a popular Progressive organization—by organizing a committee of 44.

There isn't any doubt about it; the "Sane Progressives" represent a new species, and they have so recently "descended" that they still retain their ancestral habits.—A. N. Evolutionist.

Thoughts In Season
By PROF. J. E. CRAWFORD

THE MILK STRIKE IN NEW YORK

The union of milk wagon drivers of greater New York, who are fully organized, had a contract with the companies which expired Nov. 1. Under this contract the men received a definite wage plus 2 per cent of money collected. This brought actual pay to a figure in most cases varying from $40 to $60 a week. At the expiration of the contract approached, the companies proposed to cut the wage by $3 a week. To set this, the men demanded an increase of $3, with two weeks vacation in the year. This was refused, and the men struck.

Before the strike began, the companies conceded a continuance of the old wage, but the men went out in spite of this. In view of the fairly good wages received, the present wide extent of unemployment, and the serious inconvenience to the city caused by a milk strike, public opinion turned strongly against the drivers. City officials attempted to mediate between union leaders and the Milk Conference Board, which is the central organ of the companies. Almost immediately the union yielded its demand for increased pay, and offered to go back on the old scale. The companies however took the opportunity to make a drive for the so-called "open shop" and declined absolutely to deal with the union or confer with union leaders. The strike has therefore become practically a lock-out against the union, the only issue left being that of the right to organize.

The claim that the strike was necessary as an aggressive move to offset the threat of reduced wages and the policy of wearing down and disintegrating the union. The companies claim that the union has been a disturbing factor, that they want to run their own business in their own way, and that they will never again employ the drivers except as individuals.

Conflicting claims are made regarding the progress of the strike. There has been a little disorder. The companies have hired a few drivers, and have put a good many of their inside employees on the wagons. It is possible for many—perhaps most—people in New York to get milk by walking and waiting a little, but house deliveries are almost totally lacking. Before these lines are read the situation may change, but at present the claims of the companies that they are about to establish normal deliveries, with the union entirely broken, seem to be unjustified. The union members seem to be sticking about 100 per cent. A drastic injunction has been issued on the New Jersey side of the Hudson forbidding persuasion by the drivers. It is said that a similar injunction is likely to be issued in New York.

Health commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland has made vigorous efforts to bring the strike to an end. At first he condemned the men for an unjustified strike, but now he strongly assails the companies for their uncompromising attitude.

One aspect of this "open shop" or anti-union drive must never be lost out of sight. On one side collective bargaining is an accomplished fact, completely and permanently secured. The employers are perfectly organized, and deal with their employees through a central board as a single bargainer. The only issue of the "open shop" is whether employees on their side shall be allowed to meet this collective bargaining power with a united front of their own. The milk companies are determined that they shall not.

Who's Who in the Day's News

DR. V. K. WELLINGTON KOO
DR. VI-KYUIN WELLINGTON KOO, former Chinese minister to the United States, and at present his country's representative at the court of St. James, has come to Washington as a delegate to plead for China's welfare.

Dr. Koo is one of the few delegates to the Washington parley who saw service at the Versailles gathering and is one of the younger members of the conference, having been born in 1883.

He knows America well, having been educated in this country. He got a degree of Ph. D. at Columbia University in 1912 and has the degrees of A. B. and A. M. from the same institution.

He began his education in the Anglo-Chinese college at Shanghai.

Dr. Koo began his public career by being secretary to the president of China, Yuan Shikai, and was councillor of the Chinese foreign office, 1913-15. He was appointed minister to Mexico, later to the United States and was then transferred to the London post.

He has served on many commissions in China, and among the younger Chinese there is none more imbued with the ambition to place China in the road of progress. It was Dr. Koo who, as delegate to the Versailles conference, fought for recognition of Chinese rights; it was he who protested against the Shantung award, and it was largely through his influence that China refused to ratify the pact.

Timely Views Not In The News

MEXICO IN NO DANGER FROM BOLSHIEVISM, SAYS HEAD OF OREGON'S CABINET

THAT Mexico is in no danger from Bolshevism, is the opinion of Gen. P. E. Calles, Mexican minister of government, and head of the Oregon cabinet, who is now in the United States.

"The charge of Bolshevism does not mean much in Mexico, because it is used as a term of political reproach, not as a real description," said General Calles, interviewed in New York. "Men are called Bolsheviks for enacting eight-hour day laws, minimum wage laws and measures such as the requirement that industrial and landowners shall maintain schools for their employees and hospitals for the sick and injured and compensate injured workmen—all laws long established in other countries."

"Bolshevism is used in Mexico as a phantom to scare fools. In all parts of the world, but especially in Latin countries, the capitalists have always made determined resistance to any concessions favoring the betterment of the working classes. In Mexico, the industrial and landowners have had what amounts to a system of slavery. We are seeking the liberation of the working classes from this state. We want their children to be educated."

"We want them to have at least a small home of their own."

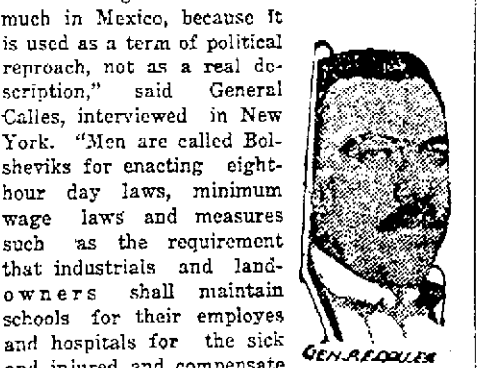

"Under the old system peons had to work twelve or fourteen hours a day for meals which consisted of only a single tortilla. Their earnings averaged about 12 1/2 cents a day, American money. We are doing away with the more inhuman features of this system."

General Calles said that propaganda was under way to make it appear that friction had developed in the Oregon government. He somewhat vehemently denounced an editorial in The New Republic on this subject.

"Such statements are absurd," said General Calles. "The cabinet members are in unison with General Oregon's policies."

General Calles would not discuss the Lamont mission, having been in the hospital at Rochester when the mission went to Mexico. He denied a rumor that Mexico had recently obtained a large loan from Japan at low interest after being refused in this country. He also denied stories that Japanese were entering Mexico by the thousands, and that Japan had obtained influence approaching domination over Mexican governmental policy.

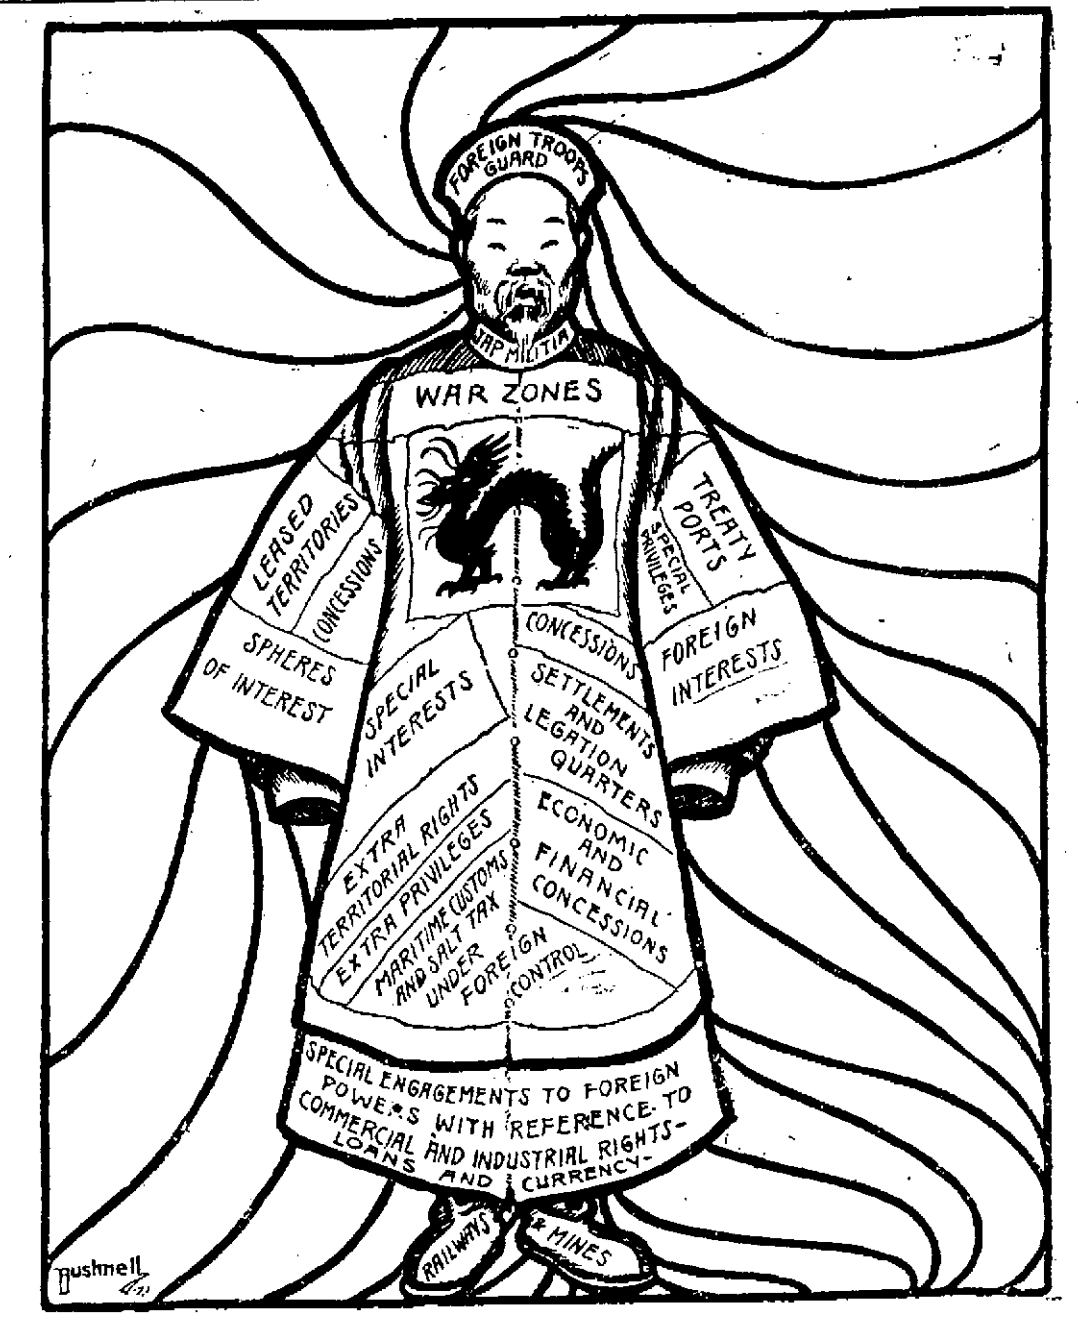

General Calles declined to discuss the question of recognition for Mexico, on the ground that it was an American question, but he said that absence of recognition had the effect of discouraging investments of American capital in Mexico.

"How do you like your summer boarders?" "I got along pretty well with all but one," said Mrs. Cobble.

"What's wrong with him?" "He had enough money last year to spend two weeks at a fashionable resort and he don't seem able to get his chin down."

THE "CHINESE PUZZLE" COMES UP FIRST ON THE AGENDA OF THE WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

Our Weekly Washington Letter

WASHINGTON BUREAU, THE CAPITAL TIMES.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Progressive members of the Wisconsin delegation in Congress won an important political victory this week when Representative Florian Lampert, Oshkosh, was chosen as the Wisconsin member of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee which will direct the Congressional campaign in Wisconsin in 1922.

The selection of Rep. Lampert thwarted an attempt by stand-pat leaders in the House to name a stalwart Wisconsin Congressman who would cooperate with the national G. O. P. reactionaries in the state to work against Progressive candidates in Wisconsin next year.

Rep. Clifford Ireland, of Peoria, incidentally a graduate of the University at Madison, is secretary of the Congressional committee, and he undertook the job of naming a stalwart from Wisconsin.

Rep. Adolphus P. Nelson, Grantsburg, the only Lenroot supporter who survived the Congressional elections in Wisconsin last year, was quietly selected for the place by Ireland.

When the Wisconsin delegation met in caucus a few days ago an attempt was made to make Nelson the Wisconsin member of the committee without a contest. Rep. Joseph D. Beck, Viroqua, took the floor and nominated Lampert. Nelson's name was then withdrawn by his own motion and Lampert was declared the choice of the delegation.

A good deal of significance is attached to the choice of a member of the Congressional committee. The committee has a part of the Republican campaign fund at its disposal and has been known to use its power to cut down "irregular" Republican candidates in the primary and the election.

While the Wisconsin Congressmen regard it as a foregone conclusion that no funds will be spent in support of the Progressive Republican candidates by the committee, they believe that Lampert's presence on the body will block any attempt by this organization to "weed out" Wisconsin Progressives in next year's campaign.

The Wisconsin delegation lined up solidly here this week behind the "insurgent" move in the house to force the acceptance by the conference committee of the Senate rate of 50 per cent as a surtax on incomes above $68,000 a year.

As the bill passed the House six weeks ago, it carried a surtax rate of only 32 per cent. At that time, the Wisconsin delegation voted solidly to retain the tax of 65 per cent carried in the present law. The Senate this week passed the bill with a surtax rate of 50 per cent.

It is to prevent the reduction of the 32 per cent rate originally fixed by the House that the Wisconsin members, joining hands with other "insurgents" and the Democratic minority in the House began their fight this week. Representatives Stafford, Adolphus P. Nelson, and Classon will join with the Wisconsin Progressives in favoring the 50 per cent surtax.

When the tax bill comes up for final passage in the House at least four Wisconsin Progressives will oppose it, following the example of Senator La Follette in the Senate.

The following Wisconsin members voted against the revenue bill as it originally passed the House in August and will also oppose the adoption of the conference report: Representatives Beck, Lampert, John M. Nelson, Voigt.

Mrs. Robert M. La Follette returned to Washington from Madison this week, after a speaking tour of the principal cities of the state in the interests of disarmament.

Mrs. La Follette was greeted by large audiences at every center where meetings had been arranged. Miss Gena Thompson, Secretary of the Wisconsin Women's Progressive Association, with headquarters at Madison, and Mrs. John J. Blaine made the tour in company with Mrs. La Follette.

The Women's Committee for World Disarmament, of which Mrs. La Follette is the Wisconsin member, will be actively at work here during the conference which opened in Washington Saturday.

The committee has appealed to women in Wisconsin and other states where organization has been perfected to appeal directly to the President and the American delegates urging open sessions and real measures of disarmament assuring tangible results from the conference.

Herman Ekern, Madison, former State Insurance Commissioner, and now counsel for a number of mutual insurance companies left Washington this week following the passage of the revenue bill by the Senate.

The bill made important changes in the taxation of insurance companies, and Attorney Ekern was called before the Senate Committee on Finance as a witness to explain how the provisions would effect the mutual companies. Dr. T. S. Adams, former professor at the University of Wisconsin, now a Treasury expert and professor of political economy at Yale, discredited with the authorship of the insurance provisions of the bill.

Frank Cantwell, of the Cantwell Printing Company, of Madison, and his sister, Miss Grace Cantwell, passed through Washington this week enroute home from a trip to New York. While in Washington they called upon Representative John M. Nelson, Madison, and Senator La Follette.

News Notes From Movieland
By DAISY DEAN

When this pretty picture of Jacobine Logan reached my desk, I wondered what excuse I could find for showing it off. I had just about decided to tell you that she deserved mention because she rose from the chorus of the "Floradora" revival to a leading feminine role in Goldwyn pictures when a much more important notice was whispered to me.

Miss Logan, it seems, is to follow in the footsteps of the former "Floradora" sextette, each of whom married a millionaire. Larry Fisher, a Chicago millionaire, is reported engaged to Miss Logan, and when questioned "his said Jacobine" did not deny the report.

Miss Logan is at present playing opposite Lon Chaney in the Goldwyn picture, "The Octave of Claudius."

TO FILM LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW.

With all that vast acreage of ground where Washington Irving was wont to roam and place his characters in his stories, we have often wondered why some director did not immortalize it. Tarrytown is so near the eastern studios; so is Spuyten Duyvil and the other villages that Irving made famous with his delightful tales of long ago. Now it seems Allen Dwan is going to do just that. He is going to take a company to Tarrytown and put into motion pictures Ichabod Crane and the rest of the quaint characters of the lost of it. It should be an inspired film with all that gorgeous background.

LILA DENIES RUMOR

The young lady who should know best about it says she is not going to marry John Gilbert, who stars in romantic plays for William Fox. Lila Lee and Gilbert have been great pals for a long time, but the rumor of their approaching marriage that came out of Los Angeles is denied most emphatically by both Miss Lee and her mother. According to reports Lila is the most engaged young lady in Hollywood.

BERRY WITH NAZIMOVA.

Wallace Berry has been engaged by Charles Bryant for the role of Helmer in Madame Nazimova's forthcoming production of "A Doll's House," which, with Oscar Wilde's "Salome," will compose Nazimova's first repertoire film for United Artists.

On the Side

A new "healer" cures his patients by drawing mystic signs on their bodies with charcoal, but what he would that do if a guy like that Johnson should fall sick.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS
Sorrow, why mar the cheek of youth? Discord, why quell life's melody? With such there should be no alloy; Yet Virtue's ne'er from evil free. Time comes to furrow Beauty's cheek, And Wisdom frowns on smiling love; Hypocrisy seems truth to spy, And storms becloud the heaven above. The canker oft infects the rose; The winter bares the opulent trees; Nightmares disturb e'en man's repose, And saddest strains of music please. —Frederick Schenck Schlesinger.

One good thing about winter is that it freezes out of existence a large crop of freckles.

"Some matches must be made in heaven," snorts the Cape Girardeau "Missourian." "At least they won't start a fire here."

"How is a woman to know what a man means by his attention when half the time he doesn't know himself?" asks the St. Joseph "News-Press."

THE NEW DAY
My soul sailed out on the river of night, In a moonbeam shallop it took its flight, Out toward the dark and threatening main. It sailed and sailed—then came back again.

Came back again in a glory of stars, Shattering the long night's iron bars, Came with the sign of a new fresh morn Wherein my spirit should be reborn.

Ah, yes, I dwell in the blackest night, Till my soul sailed out on that moonbeam bright. And thou saidst, "I will love thee, my own, till death," And the day stole up with the morn's sweet breath. —Doris Kenyon.
